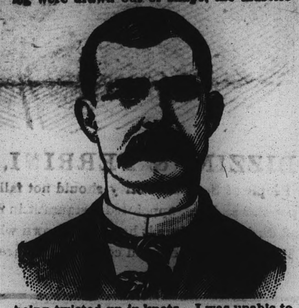
UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla



"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

A CHILD ASLEEP.

How he sleepeth! Having drunken
Weary childhood's mandragore,
From his pretty eyes have sunken
Pleasures to make room for more—
Sleeping near the withered nosegay which he pulled the day before.

Nosegays! Leave them for the waking.
Throw them earthward where they grew.
Dim are such beside the breaking
Amaranths he looks unto.
Folded eyes see brighter colors than the open ever do.

Heaven flowers, rayed by shadows golden
From the palms they sprang beneath,
Now perhaps divinely holden,
Swing against him in a wreath.
We may think so from the quickening of his bloom and of his breath.

Vision unto vision calleth
While the young child dreameth on.
Fair, O dreamer, thee befalleth
With the glory thou hast won.
Darker wert thou in the garden yester morn by summer sun.

We should see the spirits ringing
Round thee were the clouds away.
'Tis the child heart draws them, singing
In the silent seeming clay.
Singing? Stars that seem the quietest go in music all the way.

As the moths around a taper,
As the bees around a rose,
As in sunset many a vapor,
So the spirits group and close
Round about a holy childhood, as if drinking its repose.

—New York Ledger.

A DETECTIVE'S RUSE.

Cholmondely is a very old friend of mine. To the world he poses successfully as a social star. He runs a flat in Mayfair which would knock the stuffing out of an earl. His country house is situated in one of the best parts of Hertfordshire. Any day you would pick his yacht out of the swaggerest batch at Cowes, and his horses and wine are beyond all reproach.

But he hasn't a friend saving myself who knows where his money comes from.

As a matter of fact, Cholmondely is a sort of society Sherlock Holmes.

There are a good many affairs of international importance which require the most subtle investigation and diplomacy of a high order.

And then there are many society cases affecting people of high standing which require the most delicate handling. Such matters are placed entirely in the hands of men of Cholmondely's stamp. He makes quite $50,000 a year.

I was more agreeably surprised than otherwise when one day last week the following wire arrived from him:

"Can you see me before 12? Important matter. Urgent."

There was nothing of the blase man of the world air which Cholmondely affects in society as he greeted me this morning. Instead he got to business at once.

His first action was to cross the room to a little box which was fitted against the wall. I had seen it scores of times before. It was what he called his peeping machine—an arrangement of pipes and mirrors—by means of which he is able to see from the study what is going on in his drawing room and dining room.

"See anything?"

"Yes. There's a man there."

"Recognize him?"

I started back in surprise. The visitor was none other than a prominent member of the government.

Cholmondely said nothing, but simply turned a small lever and told me to look again. This time I saw into the dining room.

Seated at the table was a gentlemanly man of about 40. He was studying a notebook.

"Think he looks the desperate criminal of fiction?"

"Couldn't say boo to a goose," I replied.

"Well, anyway, he's our man, and we've got to catch him."

"But, my dear chap, he's here. You could sprinkle salt on his tail."

"Steady, my friend, steady. This is not a common or garden case. It's a matter involving the theft of a government secret.

"Our client is Lord ——, whom you saw in the drawing room just now. About 9 o'clock last night he left the foreign office with dispatches of the most important description. Were they in the hands of the government to whom they are addressed nothing could avert a great European war. He had orders to cross to the continent with them the first thing in the morning.

"To cut a long story short, they were stolen on his way home, and half an hour later he received urgent instructions to return them at once, as in view of fresh complications they must not be delivered at any cost.

"Now, the case hadn't been in my hands for more than an hour before I discovered who were the guilty gentlemen in the affair. I had been there before, so to speak. As a matter of fact, I know within an ace where those dispatches are now, but there are one or two difficulties in the path. In the first place, it is impossible by the nature of the case to arrest the men.

"Now these gentlemen offer the usual alternatives. Either we must pay them a huge ransom for the papers—you see now why they stole them—or they will skip across the channel and deliver them, in which case there will be the dickens to pay.

"The man you saw in the dining room is one of the two gentlemen concerned in the theft. Knowing he is safe from arrest, he has called to negotiate with me on the question of compensation. It's blackmail in plain English.

"Of course my clients are willing to pay anything to get the papers back, but that isn't Cholmondely's way of working. We've got to get those papers without paying for them, and if you're the man I take you for we can manage it.

"The other man's at a well known south coast port waiting to skip across the channel if negotiations fail. I think it is more than likely he has got the papers. Now, you have got to go down there and keep him in view while I dilly dally with the business manager of the show and keep him waiting here for a day or two till I hit on a good scheme.

"If he has got the papers and there's a chance, get 'em at any cost, old man. It won't cost you more than $10 to knock him down if necessary. But for heaven's sake don't make a scene. Wire me every hour, but don't take any risk of making a mess of it."

I found him in the billiard room. From my friend's description I recognized him at once. A tall, aristocratic fellow, who gave me the idea of a clever ne'er do well. Now, I know something about billiards, and as there was no one else in the room I ventured to suggest a game.

"Aw, just as you please," he drawled. "I'm not much of a hand at the game."

We played a 50. I didn't shine. You can't play any billiards to speak of with one eye, and the other was on my man. Meanwhile I was trying to form some definite line of action. I determined to get these papers single handed without any advisory assistance from Cholmondely.

At the end of the game we had a whisky and soda together. He was not half a bad fellow and was no stranger about the world.

Suddenly a brilliant idea struck me. It was a sort of neat little inspiration, and unless he carried the papers on his person I decided it ought to work.

It was 9 o'clock when I finished a most comfortable dinner. My quondam friend had strolled into the cardroom, and I followed. If Cholmondely had been present he would have noticed that I no longer wore my diamond ring.

I proposed a quiet game of cards. We played for about a quarter of an hour, when I thought it about time to open the plot, which I did by turning to my adversary and deliberately accusing him of cheating.

In a moment the room was in an uproar. The proprietor appeared on the scene, followed by the guests from the other rooms. To the former I repeated my accusation. While my victim violently protested against the insult offered him, I quietly approached the landlord.

"I would be much obliged if you would send for the police. I have lost a valuable ring, and have reason to believe that this man is not only a professional card sharper—he is also a thief."

My victim was completely staggered, and, as I imagined he would be, indignant at the accusation. Conscious of his innocence in this matter at least, he bore out my request that the police should be sent for and his character cleared. He accompanied the inspector to the station, and I followed.

What my victim felt when my diamond ring was found in his pocket I leave you to imagine. I did not consider it advisable to tell him that I had placed it there during that quiet game of cards.

"It's a lie! A foul lie!" he shouted. "It's a conspiracy! The man is trying to ruin me. I am a man of position, I tell you! It is a plot."

"You will have an opportunity of explaining that to the magistrate tomorrow morning," replied the inspector. "In the meantime I am afraid I must detain you."

Now came the critical part of the plot. Calling the inspector aside, I informed him of my suspicions that the prisoner had stolen other articles of mine which doubtless were concealed in his baggage. A judicious tip impelled the sloven arms of the law with such effect that that same night a search warrant was obtained, and accompanied by the officer I returned to the hotel, where we went through the arrested man's traps.

In a corner of his portmanteau was a bundle of papers stamped with an important looking seal. It was that described to me by Cholmondely.

As the inspector was engaged in searching the prisoner's dressing case I dipped by hand in the bag and abstracted the dispatches.

That night they went under registered cover to my London friend, and the same train that brought the prisoner's confederate to his aid in the morning in response to his urgent telegrams numbered Cholmondely among its passengers.

The magistrate said it was a most flagrant case of theft. Under the circumstances, however, he didn't think a month's hard labor too much for the prisoner.

I wish you could have been in court at the moment when the prisoner and his friend properly appreciated the fact that the prosecutor was a bosom friend of Cholmondely.

I can see their faces now as the trick dawned upon them.—Answers.

Skulls of Papier Mache.

In making animals' skins into fur rugs and in the manufacture of various articles made of fur imitation skulls are often used in place of the natural skull. The imitation skulls are made of papier mache, the inside of the mouth and the tongue being wax coated; the teeth are of celluloid. When mounted, the animals are supplied with artificial eyes. The imitation skulls are modeled from natural skulls, and they are strikingly characteristic in appearance. They are made in great variety as substitutes for the skulls of many animals.—New York Sun.

Struck Home.

The festivities at the coming of age of the present Lord Hopetoun included a service at the parish church, which was filled with members of the great Hope family and also with members of the Hope clan. The feelings of the congregation thus composed can be imagined when the minister began his discourse with the words, "My brethren, the world is full of blasted hopes."

Crests Cost Money.

To display a crest on stationery and plate in England costs each family a tax of a guinea a year. About 40,000 people pay it.

THIMBLES.

A Brief but Clear Description of How They Are Manufactured.

The thimble is a Dutch invention, and the first one was made in 1684 by a silversmith named Nicholas Van Benshoten. Originally it was called "thumbell," because it was worn on the thumb.

In making thimbles the gold and silver ingots are rolled out into sheets of the desired thickness and cut by a stamp into circular pieces of any required size. These circular pieces are bent into thimble shape by means of a solid metal bar that is of the same size as the inside of the intended thimble. This bar is moved by machinery up and down in a bottomless mold of the outside of the same thimble, and each time the bar descends it presses one of the circular pieces or disks into thimble shape.

When the thimble is shaped, the next work is to brighten, polish and decorate it. First, the blank thimble is fitted with a rapidly revolving rod. A slight touch of a sharp chisel cuts a very thin shaving from the end of the thimble, a second chisel does the same on the side, and a third neatly rounds off the rim. A round steel rod, well oiled, is held against the surface of the revolving thimble, and it is thus given a nice polish. The inside is brightened and polished in a similar manner, the thimble being held in a revolving mold.

Then a delicate, revolving steel wheel with a raised, ornamental edge is pressed against the blank thimble and prints the ornament seen just outside the rim. Another steel wheel covered with sharp points makes tiny indentations all over the remaining blank surface of the thimble.

The last operation is to wash it thoroughly in soapsuds, to brush it carefully, and it is ready for my lady's workbasket.—Philadelphia Times.

THE DIVINE NAME.

The Ineffable Word That Is Never Spoken by Many Israelites.

The Rev. Dr. Wise, president of the Hebrew Union college at Cincinnati, has given his view of the ancient Jewish rendering of the name of the Deity. He says that the term "Jehovah," the ineffable tetragrammaton, is never pronounced by many Israelites. They use the word "Adonoi," which signifies "the Lord." The translators of the Bible followed this custom, rendering the word "Jehovah" as "Lord." In ancient times the Pharisees replaced the tetragrammaton by Shem. They used "Shemo," which is also Biblical, as the sacred name, and this name is yet retained, to some extent, among the Jews. But it would appear from passages in the Psalms that Adonoi, or Lord, for Jehovah was more ancient even than the times of the Pharisees. It thus occurs eight times in Psalm lxxxiv. It also appears in the book of Exodus, where "Jehovah" had been used in the original Hebrew. This substitution would seem to be older than any other, and it is yet common among all Jews.

Dr. Wise says he has found that the ancient translations testify in favor of "Adonoi."

Looking at the English translation of the Old Testament, it will be found that the name Jehovah appears in the books of Genesis, Exodus, Judges, the Psalms and Isaiah. It is not in the New Testament.—New York Sun

A Newspaper Curiosity.

Thomas Smith, Jr., who keeps a secondhand furniture store at 220 Center street, has in his possession an old newspaper which is a real curiosity. It is 126 years old and contains the first cuts ever printed in a newspaper. He bought it at the receiver's sale of the estate of Joseph Low Mason, who was once a police commissioner. The curiosity is inclosed in an unassuming frame and covered by glass on both sides, so as to permit its being read without handling. The heading is: "Boston Gazette and Country Journal. Monday, March 12, 1770."

Of the two leading articles one treats of the Boston riots, and the other is an appeal to all patriotic citizens to withhold from purchasing goods of English manufacture. The former is illustrated with five rudely drawn coffins, which are supposed to contain the bodies of the first five heroes of American independence.

The paper is extremely valuable as a relic, and it is said that the heirs of Mr. Mason have offered to buy it for a large sum, but Smith refuses to part with it.—New York Tribune.

To Clean Soiled Boots.

Ink stains may be removed from a book by applying with a camel's hair pencil a small quantity of oxalic acid diluted with water and then using blotting paper. Two applications will remove all traces of the ink. To remove grease spots, lay powered pipe clay each side of the spot and press with an iron as hot as the paper will bear without scorching. Sometimes grease spots may be removed from paper or cloth by laying a piece of blotting paper on them and then pressing the blotting paper with a hot iron. The heat melts the grease and the blotting paper absorbs it. —Writer.

Musquito Eggs.

The eggs of the mosquito are fastened together by a viscid secretion from the insect's body. From 250 to 300 eggs are laid at a time, and the little boat shaped mass is so constructed that it will not overset. It cannot be sunk nor in anyway injured by wind, rain or water. It is abandoned by the insect, and the eggs are hatched by the heat of the sun or atmosphere. A temperature below freezing is said not to destroy the vitality of the mosquito's eggs.

In 1841 Smyrna was visited by a conflagration which destroyed 12,000 houses. The buildings destroyed were light wooden structures, and a fire once kindled in a town of frame buildings closely crowded together is almost impossible to subdue.

J. C. Sims, Democratic nominee for Superior Judge, was in town last Sunday. He will run ahead of his ticket in this precinct.

T. C. Putnam, nominee for Supervisor, was over from his home in Vallejo Township Wednesday on a campaigning tour.

Sonoma will be the banner Republican precinct this election. There are 169 voters registered here and it is claimed over 120 of these will vote for McKinley.

Samuel K. Dougherty, nominee for Superior Judge, is making a winning fight and his election is now conceded by almost everybody. Reports from all over the county agree that his strength is not confined to any one particular section.

Every voter should cast his ballot against Amendment No. One to the State Constitution exempting mortgages from taxation. They should also vote against those Assemblymen who are up for re-election who favored the iniquitious measure in the last Legislature, no matter what excuse they may now make for voting aye to do away with one of the most just provisions of our constitution.

San Luis precinct will go for Bryan and free silver. In 1894 this precinct gave Budd, Democratic nominee for Governor, three plurality. There are four Populists in San Luis and one lone Prohibitionist, Who the latter individual is it is hard to guess. It is said, however, (but mind we do not vouch for it), that Johnny Mallon, the genial clerk of Vollmar's Hotel, is the man. The finger of suspicion also points to Charley Ohm.

Albert G. Burnett, Republican nominee for Superior Judge, has been very ill the past few weeks but was able to attend the meeting of the County Candidates in this place Wednesday. He is rapidly improving, however, and expects to visit Sonoma again shortly. Mr. Burnett is one of the most popular Republicans in Sonoma county and will poll a heavy vote down this way. He is one of the ablest lawyers in Sonoma county.

John W. Keegan, nominee for the Assembly from this district, will pay Sonoma another visit before election. He is a representative man in every sense of the word and if elected will work in the interests of his constituents. If men of his stamp were sent to Sacramento to make our laws instead of the "riff-raff" that has disgraced the California Legislature the past few years we would hear less of "boodle" and "cinch bills," and our statute books would be graced with good and wholesome laws.

The contest for Supervisor in this district promises to be a hot and close one between T. C. Putnam, the Republican nominee, and P. H. Thompson, the present incumbent. Party lines will be completely obliterated in this contest. Many Democrats are outspoken in favor of Mr. Putnam, while on the other hand an equal number of Republicans are whoopin' 'em up for Mr. Thompson. As both men are honest and capable it matters not which of the gentlemen is elected the people of Sonoma and Vallejo Townships are bound to secure a good man for the office.

The Democrats and Populists are claiming Sonoma county by 500 majority. They reason this way: At the last election for Governor Budd, Democratic, received 2,832 votes, Estee, Republican, 3,316 and Webster, Populist, 1091. Now, they claim that as the Democrats and Populists are united their candidates will poll over 4,000 votes. In other words that the Republicans have the combined strength of the two parties against them in this campaign. The Republicans, on the other hand, claim the county and base their claims on the election returns of two years ago. However, we would advise the political prophets of both parties to go slow. Politics, you know, are "mighty onsartin" this year.

The Tyranny of the Desk.

We will suppose that your occupation is sedentary—that you are chained, so to speak, to the desk in some counting house, or perhaps to the loom in some vast mill where you are compelled to labor from morning till night. Sunday is your only day of relaxation. You return home every evening wearied mentally and bodily. Your health and strength begin to fail. What will most effectually recuperate your vital energy? The weight of evidence points to no other conclusion than that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is your safest, most reliable sheet anchor. Use it persistently, and your system will soon regain its pristine vigor. Every function will receive a healthful impulse. There is no remedy to equal the Bitters for nervousness and want of sleep, dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness. It averts and remedies all forms of malarial disease, and is a preventive of rheumatism and neuralgia.

CUT PRICES by the only concern that ever voluntarily reduced prices, or in recent times originated a new idea in Windmill and Water Supply Goods. Everything the farmer sells is low. CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

A HEAVENLY PHENOMENON.

Three Balls of Fire Linked Together Go Whizzing Through Space.

On Thursday evening last about six o'clock what appeared to be three comets linked together in the shape of balls of fire as large as a man's head, with a tail attached, passed over town whizzing through space in an easterly direction. To those who witnessed the heavenly phenomenon it was a grand and awe-inspiring sight. The fiery object, however, came a little to close to this mundane sphere for ordinary comfort and when it had passed beyond town and out of sight a sigh of relief went up from those who witnessed its flight athwart the sky.

CITY TRUSTEES.

The City Trustees met in regular semi-monthly session last Wednesday evening, a full Board being present with President Seipp in the chair.

After the reading and adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting the bids for building a bridge across the creek on Germany street were opened and read by Clerk Breitenbach. The bids were as follows:

J. B. Small—$244.75 if built according to plans and specifications, $285 if walls be of the height of seven feet, or $235 if bulkheads be of wood.

L. Breitenbach—Bridge to be built according to plans and specifications, $188.

J. D Wagnon—Bridge to be built according to plans and specifications, $196.

On motion of Trustee Bulotti, which received a second from Trustee Hartin, the contract was awarded to L. Breitenbach, on condition that he complete the structure inside of thirty days.

On motion of Trustee Poppe, seconded by Trustee Bulotti, it was ordered that G. A. Goess give a bond in the sum of $250 for building the bridge on Fourth street East, the contract for which was let to him at the last meeting of the Board.

It was also ordered that L. Breitenbach give a bond in the sum of $250 for the building of the bridge on Germany street.

The Street Committee was instructed to repair a small bridge on Napa street and also to attend to the lighting of the street lamp at the entrance to the railway depot grounds.

After a heated argument City Marshal Robin was allowed a deputy during the continuance of the Catholic Church Fair at a compensation of $1 per night.

No bills were presented and the meeting adjourned.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

Addresses by L. V. Hitchcock and the County Candidates.

The Republican meeting at Weyl's Hall last Wednesday evening was one of the largest and most enthusiastic of the campaign.

The meeting was called to order by Robt. A. Poppe, President of the McKinley and Hobart Club of this place. After a campaign song by the Glee Club, composed of W. E. Thomas, L. Leech, C. Leech and J. Leech, President Poppe introduced W. S. Staley, nominee for the Assembly, who explained how he came to vote, as a member of the last Legislature, to submit to the people the proposition to exempt mortgages from taxation. He also proclaimed himself in favor of George C. Perkins for United States Senator, and said if elected he would cast his vote for him in the next Legislature.

T. C. Putnam, candidate for Supervisor, was the next speaker. Mr. Putnam, who is a level-headed and successful business man and farmer, said that he was in favor of sprinkling the county roads, and would endeavor if elected to divide up the road work in Sonoma and Vallejo Townships among the farmers.

Samuel K. Dougherty, nominee for Superior Judge, followed Mr. Putnam. When the Judge stepped forward he was greeted with a perfect ovation, which plainly showed that he is one of the most popular candidates on the ticket. In his brief remarks he had little to say about himself but paid a high tribute to the worth of Albert G. Burnett, who is his running mate on the Republican ticket for Superior Judge.

Albert G. Burnett then made his bow to the people and like Judge Dougherty was greeted with great enthusiasm. Mr. Burnett, who is just recovering from a severe spell of sickness, excused himself for not visiting Sonoma before. He said among other things that Judge Dougherty and himself had no enemies to punish or friends to reward, and that it was the height of his ambition to serve the people of Sonoma county as Superior Judge.

L. V. Hitchcock followed in a ringing address, which lasted one hour. He spoke on the silver question and showed up the fallacy of coining the white metal at 16 to 1. He also expatiated on the virtues of protection and claimed that the latter and not free silver was what the country needed to bring about prosperity and contentment among the people. He likened certain planks in the Democratic platform to the platform of a railroad car. He said a number of people were standing on the outside of a railway coach and a brakesman came along and ordered them inside the car. To this they demurred and wanted to know what that platform was there for, anyhow. "Why, to get in on," said the brakesman. Thus it was with the Democrats, said the speaker, their platform was constructed to get in on. His speech, which was both logical and witty, was listened to with marked attention.

The meeting wound up with a social hop which kept up till midnight.

GLEN ELLEN ITEMS.

Mrs. C. H. W. Brunning has returned from San Francisco much improved in health.

R. A. Long will address the people on the political issues of the day this evening.

Chas. J. Poppe and family visited the Polpula rancho and Embarcadero last Sunday.

The Simoni building we understand has been decided on as the polling place for the coming election.

A large gathering of voters greeted L. V. Hitchcock and the Republican county candidates last Tuesday evening.

The continuous clear weather has enabled the farmers to dispose of their grapes without some loss as usual in former years.

The family I. W. Wright, who lost their all by fire some days ago, have been made comfortable by the liberality of our people.

Conrad Futterer and family have leased a cottage in this place. Mr. F. is employed in the tailoring establishment at the Home for Feeble Minded.

A grass fire broke out on the Quien ranch yesterday and burned about 80 acres of dry feed. The fire was subdued without further damage.

The section house of the Southern Pacific Company at this place has received a new coat of paint which has greatly improved its appearance.

REMINGTON.

CATHOLIC FAIR.

Crowded Nightly—One of the Most Successful Social Events of the Season.

The Catholic Fair, which opened in Union Hall last Wednesday evening, has beencrowded nightly and is both a social and financial success. Rev. Father M. J. Whyte, the pastor, and the ladies of St. Francis' Church deserve more than passing praise for the admirable manner in which the Fair is being conducted.

The large hall presents a varied, attractive and animated scene nightly.

The fancy booth, octagonal in shape and artistically draped in red bunting and natural moss, is under the supervision of Mrs. Natalia Haraszthy, Mrs. M. F. Mullen, Mrs. Emparan, Mrs. E. K. Stevenot and a bevy of pretty girls. The Children of Mary's booth is handsomely decorated in blue and white and is presided over by Misses Terry, Dowdell, Robin, Kearney, Biggins and McDonnell. In the ice cream booth are Misses Biggins, Redmond, Terry and Mrs. Harra. In the candy booth Misses Miller and Malone. At the lemonade well Mesdames Dowdell and Murray. In the refreshment booth Mesdames Carr, Watt and Laux.

The entertainment on the opening night, which was entirely musical, was under the direction of Prof. M. Y. Ferrer and daughters of San Francisco. Mrs. Lulu de Emparan and Miss Natalia Haraszthy, the former a daughter and the latter a granddaughter of the late General Vallejo, also took part and rendered a Spanish duet.

Thursday evening was American night. The stage was artistically draped with Americal flags, shields and other patriotic emblems. The programme was arranged by Mrs. Horace Appleton, and opened with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" in costume by Mrs. Maude Angell. A graceful Delsarte drill was given by the following young ladies: Miss Elsie Appleton, Miss Zelma Johnson, Miss Anita Emparan, Miss Cecilia Granice, Miss Vinnie Morris, Miss Sara Cady and Miss Julie Granice. Miss Clare Hope, a pupil of Mlle. Ida Valerga of San Francisco, sang "Alla Stella Confidante," with violin obligato by Miss Mabel Lowell. The programme concluded with a one-act farce, "The Sleeping Car," which was the hit of the evening. Following was the cast: Aunt Mary, Lulu Emparan; Mrs. Roberts, Natalia Haraszthy; Mr. Roberts (henpecked), R. M. Sims; baby, unnamed; Abraham Sawyer, Ben Weed; Will Campbell, Vernon Goodwin; Conductor, J. Burke; Porter, Stewart Elliott.

Last night the audience was entertained by Mrs. Lucy Walliser and Miss Gundlach with an instrumental duet, a vocal solo by Mr. O'Brien of San Francisco, and an instrumental quartette on two pianos rendered by Mrs. Walliser, Miss Bertie Aguillon, Miss Bessie Carpenter and Miss Cecilia Granice. The programme concluded with a fancy Spanish dance in which the following young girls took part: Miss Ruth Poppe, Miss Doris Clewe, Miss Julie Granice, Miss Nora Burke, Miss Anita Emparan, Miss Annie Burke, Miss Loretta Muldry and Miss Lulu Perry.

To-night the Fair will be visited by the Legion of the Cross Cadets of San Francisco and several of the Cadets will take part in an excellent programme which is to be presented. James B. Small will also make his bow in comicalities and local hits. The evening's entertainment will conclude with a social hop.

The Fair will close Monday evening with a grand auction sale of fancy articles and raffles.

Grand Opening.

S. Schocken announces in another column a grand opening of a brand new stock of general merchandise on Saturday, November 7th, which will be sold at city prices for cash. He is now receiving daily and putting on his shelves one of the newest and most complete stocks of general merchandise ever offered for sale in this town. As before stated his store will be opened to the public on Saturday, November 7th, on which day he invites the general public to call and inspect his goods, it matters not whether his visitors make a purchase or not.

Poat, G. C. Schelling, W. Groshong, Fred Lemmon, Le Roy Smith, Frank Laughlin, A. F. Nagle, Henry Noonan, Ben Noonan, Legro.

In making cream or lemon pies, where the crust requires to be baked before the filling is put in, an excellent plan is to lay over the paste a piece of strong brown tissue paper, plaiting it to fit the pie plate and coming above the edge. Fill this with flour or meal and bake until the crust is done. Then the paper and contents may be lifted out. If flour is used it can be utilized afterwards for thickening sauces and gravies.

A large number of duck-hunters from San Francisco have been making it pretty lively the past week for the birds in the marshes and sloughs near this place. Fred. Spaulding and Wm. Church killed twenty-seven teal and sprig on Thursday evening of last week. They report the birds as becoming scarce since the shooting season opened, and say that they will continue so until the rainy season sets in.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should not be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, OCT. 24, 1896.

WOMEN WHO MADDEN MEN.

Do It Unpoetically, Because They Do Not Know How to Be Wives.

Women may be charming, wholly devoted to their homes and their husbands, and yet be so tactless, thoughtless and aggravating as to drive husbands to the extreme of misery. Any observant bachelor could recall numbers of instances of women who from want of tact and intelligence are almost driving their husbands mad by getting on their nerves. They forget that busy men require absolute brain rest, change of scene, change of subject. They forget that, however worrying the little affairs of a household may be, the anxieties of a great business upon which the whole family's present and future depend are far greater. A friend of mine who is now nearly a millionaire told me in confidence that while he was sitting one night over his smoking room fire wondering whether he could next day possibly survive a terrible crisis which was hanging over his head and might lead to disastrous bankruptcy, with debts to the extent of £200,000 or so, his wife came whining into the room to say the butcher must be paid the next day. And the amount of the butcher's bill was under £50.

It is on such occasions that a man wants a helpful wife—one who will tell him about or read aloud the last good novel, who will say: "Come, let us go to the theater tonight. You need change of scene." And, above all, one who knows just when her husband requires nothing more than to be left alone. It is women who get on their husbands' nerves that drive them to take bachelor holidays when they ought to be getting more enjoyment from the wife's companionship.

Of course there are men who are always out of sorts—dyspeptic bears with sore heads, who require strong minds to manage them—but there are very many others who only want judicious, sympathetic treatment to be the best husbands in the world. Avoid being silly, avoid saying silly things or trying to make conversation or commenting on some remark your husband has made. Read and think in order to cultivate intelligence and resourcefulness, with the object in view of being his counselor and his friend, and, above all, "chum." That word means much. — London Graphic.

Forgeries In Collections.

The question of forgeries which disfigure our national collections cannot pass unnoticed. I do not assert that the South Kensington museum contains more of them than are to be found in similar institutions on the continent, though it probably does, for with such exquisite and beautiful skill are these objects nowadays forged or "faked" that the most practical expert may now and again be victimized by them almost without disgrace. So perfect has the art of the forger become and so fine an artist the forger, so elaborate his plots and conspiracies to catch even the wariest of directors and collectors, that often the only safety lies nowadays in written guarantee and proved provenance from one reputable collection to another. I need not refer to any even of the most notorious forgeries in South Kensington museum, for that is obviously the duty of a properly appointed committee of experts, which should at the earliest possible moment be constituted. I do not agree with Sir J. C. Robinson's first proposal, that such frauds should be destroyed out of all existence.

I believe that a far better purpose would be served by branding them indelibly as forgeries and bringing them together in a single room, to form an edifying forgery exhibition by themselves, with all particulars as to the dealers from whom they were obtained and the price which was paid for them. The educational value of such a collection would be considerable and as an object lesson instructive in distinct ways to collector, student, forger and director, and only a little moral courage would be required to act on the suggestion. Moreover, the fine artists who made them might be thus discovered and encouraged in more honorable work. At the same time the revision of the museum labels should be proceeded with and the numerous errors which at present mislead the public remedied.—Contemporary Review.

A Curiously Named Garden.

There is a garden at Brixton kept by an old gentleman which presents some curiosities in floral nomenclature. The owner has been seized with a desire to label his flowers after the manner of botanists, but knowing nothing of scientific terms consulted an acquaintance. The result is more amusing than appropriate and proves the folly of wisdom where ignorance is bliss. Scientific names have been affixed to all the flowers, but strictly on the principle that "a rose by any other name will smell as sweet." One row bears the inscription "Nux vomica," another is boldy labeled "Nisi prius," a third is affirmed to be "Ipecacuanha" and another to be "Particeps criminis." The amateur gardener is exceedingly proud of his 'collection, and no one has enlightened him on the incongruity of the descriptions.—London Telegraph.

HOME COMING.

Set o' sun, and toil is done.
Grind, oh, wheels, while others tread!
Homeward through the night I run
To the heaven just ahead.

Light o' love, light o' love,
Other refuge have I none.
Thou the worth of life must prove
While the fight is yet unwon.

Scant the fare that love may share.
Pale the lips that love may press.
Stern the burdens love must share.
Fierce the wrongs that wait redress.

Heart o' life, heart o' life,
Manna in the wilderness,
We should perish in the strife
But for love's strong tenderness.

Speed the day when we may say
Justice reigns and men are free.
Peace shall kiss us in the way,
Labor crown us plenteously.

Love is all! Love is all!
Sound the word from sea to sea.
Hand to hand we stand or fall.
Ho, for love and liberty!
—Annie L. Muzzey in New York Sun.

TENNYSON'S WOMEN.

The Poet Never Idealized the Work of the Wage Earner.

Tennyson gave the world pictures of some of the fairest feminine creations in poetry—winsome maidens, demure and trustful; womanly women, loyal and companionable; devoted wives, gentle and faithful; noble matrons, loving and self sacrificing, serving the best interests of home and country.

Tennyson's conception of woman and her sphere may be regarded as rather old fashioned. He was evidently not in full sympathy with some of the advanced notions of the modern woman. His burlesque of woman's rights in "The Princess" has not hurt the cause of the weaker sex. He understood the right relations of the man and the woman, and his utterances in the closing passages of this poem go to the heart of the problem. It is still true that woman's chief place and crowning glory is to be queen of the home. There she may have an unlimited field for usefulness and exert a farreaching influence for good if she but realize her opportunities and improve them. In the household woman finds her proper sphere and work.

Her office there to rear, to teach,
Becoming as is meet and fit
A link among the days, to knit
The generations each with each.

No other poet has done more to glorify the maternal sentiment or to make the family relation sacred. Woman's work, as he conceived it, is not only training the plastic minds of the young, but spurring the man to more resolute endeavor and grander achievement. Yielding to her subtler forces and gentler agencies, he aspires to a higher plane of being. While "accomplishing his manhood" by repressing the baser and cultivating the finer side of him, she at the same time works out her own salvation, humanly speaking, in the truest sense. In a word, it is by loving and being loved that she reaches the fullest development and renders the world the best service. Conserving and fostering goodness and greatness, ministering to the wants of the lowly, scattering gloom and softening the sting of anguish—this is woman's mission.—Chautauquan.

The Uses of Tectorium.

Recently inquiries were sent out by the state department to consular officers in Europe asking for information concerning the commercial product called tectorium, which is described as follows:

Tectorium consists of a galvanized iron web covered with a gelatinous substance and is translucent but not transparent. It is described by a manufacturer as a substance that, first, can be bent without being broken; second, is both tough and flexible; third, is not softened by the rays of the sun; fourth, is nonsoluble; fifth, is not affected by severe cold; sixth, is a bad conductor of heat; seventh, is well adapted for roofs on account of its extreme lightness; eighth, when exposed to the sun, it loses its original yellowish color in time and becomes harder and more durable; ninth, can be made, by a very cheap process, to imitate stained glass in such manner that it cannot be distinguished from the genuine article; tenth, can be cut by shears, nailed to wood and transported without danger; eleventh, can be easily repaired in case it is cut; twelfth, does not break, and thirteenth, is well adapted for factory windows and skylights for hothouses, market halls, verandas, transportable buildings and for roofing.

The consuls state that it is sold in small quantities in a few places, but that it is not known to the general public and as a commercial product is still an experiment.

And He Was a Lunatic.

A gentleman was visiting a Scotch lunatic asylum where new premises were being added. The inmates were assisting. On seeing one of the latter wheeling a barrow upside down from the building to the stones, the visitor asked him why he wheeled it in that manner. "Oh," said the lunatic, "that's the best way." The visitor took the barrow, and turning it right side up said, "This is the proper way." "That's a' you ken," said the inmate, "I tried it that way, but they filled it fu' o' bricks." So saying, he trotted on his usual way.—Exchange.

Hicks—Did you ever see a boy trying to take a fishhook out of an eel he had just pulled in?

Wicks—Yes.

Hicks—Well, then, you have seen Joaquin Miller's autograph.—Somerville Journal.
